

What is DualEnroll.com?

DualEnroll.com is the online system used by College of the Desert to manage high school students participating in the Free Early College (Dual and Concurrent) program. Through this program, eligible high school students can take College of the Desert courses while still in high school.

All high school students who wish to take College of the Desert courses through the Free Early College program must create an account through collegeofthedesert.DualEnroll.com and submit their course requests through the platform.

Why Do I Need to Use DualEnroll.com?

DualEnroll.com allows College of the Desert to collect and process the approvals and documentation required for high school students to take college courses. This includes:

- Parent/guardian approval
- High school counselor or administrator approval
- Verification of eligibility requirements
- Online orientation
- Course request and registration processing

DualEnroll.com also allows College of the Desert to identify students as participants in the Free Early College program. This ensures students are processed correctly, receive the appropriate program benefits, and are not billed as regular college students.

Who Uses DualEnroll.com?

DualEnroll.com is used by:

- High school students
- Parents/guardians
- High school counselors and administrators
- College of the Desert Free Early College staff

Each user plays a role in reviewing, approving, and processing course requests.

When Should I Use DualEnroll.com?

Students should use DualEnroll.com to:

- Create a DualEnroll.com account
- Submit course requests
- Track the status of course requests
- View approvals and registration updates
- Request courses each semester they wish to enroll

Students should use DualEnroll.com every semester they plan to take College of the Desert courses while in high school.

Can I Register Through Self-Service?

No. High school students participating in the Free Early College (Dual and Concurrent) program must use DualEnroll.com to request and register for courses.

Students should not register through Self-Service like regular college students. Using DualEnroll.com ensures that all required approvals and documentation are collected and allows College of the Desert to properly identify students in the program. This helps prevent students from being billed as regular college students. This also prevents students and their families from receiving a bill from COD for tuition and fees. If you use Self-Service you will most likely receive a bill from the college because the process was not followed correctly.
